

SVI New Product Notice . . .

January 30, 2006

Re-continued. . .

The OE recently discontinued this (FA73) very important safety related device. And, SVI has stepped in to make this very important lift safety product available again, forever. At SVI we are not willing to sacrifice the safety of the owners and operators of these lifts.

Today, there remain literally 1,000's and 1,000's of FP46A single post lifts still in service in the field. These lifts were once produced by Rotary lift. As of today, if you need to replace the low oil control on any Rotary semi-hydraulic single post lifts, SVI is your answer. Without this device a low oil situation can cause potentially dangerous rapid or erratic lift ascent. The low oil control is very important because it prevents operation of the lift if the oil volume is below the proper safe operating level.

OSHA inspectors in many areas have begun inspecting single post lifts for multiple position safety legs. The old single position locking safety leg does not meet the current requirements. There are literally thousands of single post lifts out there that need this upgrade. Lately, more and more shops have received visits from OSHA and have been told to make the upgrade right away. Don't let your customers get caught on the wrong side of a visit from OSHA.

Under a load air will compress, compress, compress until wham, it suddenly overcomes the load and expands very fast creating almost a catapult like effect on the load (the vehicle).

SVI and its engineers remain committed to working on ways to keep the lift industry continually supplied with safety related products.
